Security is their business and Service is their mission. A company you can trust.

Such a great improvement over other types of analytics we previously used

In addition to providing security solutions for businesses, Holicong also has some prestigious celebrity private clients. As you would expect, individual privacy and protection from unwanted 'intruders' onto this private residence, is a critical requirement.

Although this customer has a state-of-the-art security camera system installed, the previous brand of detection analytics underperformed. The system hardly ever generated false alarms, but unfortunately also missed most of the intrusion simulations that were performed when it was re-tested during the recent COVID-19 lockdowns.

On recommendation from a large, national central monitoring provider who monitors other DAVANTIS installations, Holicong Security did a one month trial evaluation of DAVANTIS' DFUSION detection analytics, and the results were great.

According to Buena Silverman (President of Holicong Security), her team was extremely pleased with the ease of installation for the technical staff and how user friendly the product was for the client. Such a great improvement over other types of analytics we previously used.

After the trial period, the customer purchased a 12 channel DFUSIONPRO server, with future expansion capacity for another 4 cameras.

The system is configured to detect people and vehicles that move around the property, and can transmit alarms to a central monitoring provider – whilst being viewed in the DAVANTIS cellphone APP, by the client.

Accurate Detection With Minimal False Alarms

The DAVANTIS system protects this difficult residential environment, with lots of interference from vegetation, farm and wild animals roaming the area, and cameras that oversee long distances.

The DAVANTIS technology was far superior to previously used analytics, making the technicians jobs easier on site, with the end result being a happier, more secure client.
